EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations amend the Police (Conduct) Regulations 2012 (“the 2012 Regulations”) to make provision which enables the appropriate authority (e.g. a chief officer of police) to prevent the officer concerned, who has become the subject of misconduct proceedings by virtue of the 2012 Regulations, from resigning or retiring pending the conclusion of those proceedings.

Regulation 2 inserts new regulation 10A into the 2012 Regulations.

New regulation 10A(1) to (4) provides that the officer concerned may not give notice of intention to resign or retire, in respect of a matter to which new regulation 10A(2) applies, without obtaining the consent of the appropriate authority from the date on which the 2012 Regulations first apply to the officer concerned until it is determined that the matter shall not be referred to a misconduct hearing or a special case hearing or such proceedings have been concluded.

New regulation 10A(2) applies to a matter from the date on which the 2012 Regulations first apply to the officer concerned but, by virtue of new regulation 10A(3), ceases to apply where there is an assessment that the matter does not amount to gross misconduct or, in relation to a case which potentially amounts to misconduct, the officer concerned does not have a final written warning in force at the date of the assessment of conduct (whether under the 2012 Regulations or paragraph 19B(2) or (3) of Schedule 3 to the Police Reform Act 2002).

New regulation 10A(5) provides that the appropriate authority may consent to the officer concerned giving notice of intention to resign or retire if the appropriate authority is satisfied that the officer concerned is medically unfit to continue to be the subject of the proceedings under the 2012 Regulations, or there are other exceptional circumstances which justify the appropriate authority giving consent to the notice of intention to resign or retire.

New regulation 10A(6) to (9) makes provision for the giving by the appropriate authority of its decision and confers a right on the officer concerned to make representations.
