EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations amend the Electronic Communications Code (Jurisdiction) Regulations 2017 (S.I. 2017/1284) (“the jurisdiction regulations”) to confer on the First-Tier Tribunal jurisdiction for all proceedings in relation to England and Wales under the Electronic Communications Code (“the code”). The code is set out in Schedule 3A to the Communications Act 2003 (c. 21), as inserted by Part 2 of the Digital Economy Act 2017 (c. 30).

The jurisdiction regulations were made in exercise of the powers conferred by section 402(3) of the Communications Act 2003 and paragraph 95(1) to (4) of the code. The jurisdiction regulations permit functions conferred on “the court” by the code to be exercised by certain tribunals, and modify the code accordingly. The jurisdiction regulations restrict the commencement of relevant proceedings to certain tribunals, and provide for the transfer of relevant proceedings in England and Wales and in Scotland to certain courts if the tribunal considers that court to be a more appropriate forum.

Regulation 2 of these Regulations amends regulation 3 of the jurisdiction regulations to confer on the First-Tier Tribunal jurisdiction for all proceedings in relation to England and Wales under the code. It does this by removing the restriction that functions are only exercisable by the First-Tier Tribunal for code cases in relation to England that have been transferred to it from the Upper Tribunal and for code cases in relation to England and Wales in connection with Part 4A proceedings.

Regulation 3 of these Regulations amends regulation 4 of the jurisdiction regulations to remove the restriction that relevant code proceedings in relation to England and Wales must be commenced in the Upper Tribunal. The restriction that Part 4A code proceedings must be commenced in the First-Tier Tribunal is retained.
