EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Order)

Under paragraph 5 of Schedule 2 to the Asylum and Immigration Appeals Act 1993 (as substituted by the Asylum and Immigration Act 1996), an accelerated appeal procedure applies to an asylum-seeker whose claim is rejected and is to be sent to a country or territory designated by the Secretary of State as one in which it appears to him that there is in general no serious risk of persecution. This, the first designation Order, specifies Bulgaria, Cyprus, Ghana, India, Pakistan, Poland and Romania as such countries.

Under section 3 of the Asylum and Immigration Act 1996 an asylum-seeker who may be returned to a safe third country without substantive consideration of his claim may not bring or pursue an appeal while he is in the United Kingdom if the country or territory to which he has been, or is to be, sent is or forms part of a Member State of the European Union or is designated for the purpose by the Secretary of State. This Order also designates Canada, Norway, Switzerland and the United States of America for that purpose. It is the first designation Order under section 2 of the Asylum and Immigration Act 1996.
