

Status: This is the original version (as it was originally enacted). This item of legislation is currently only available in its original format.

2022 CHAPTER 30

Slander

Special damage

10.—(1) The Slander of Women Act 1891 is repealed.

(2) The publication of a statement that conveys the imputation that a person has a contagious or infectious disease does not give rise to a cause of action for slander unless the publication causes the person special damage.