

twelve months from the date of actual payment of the contribution, whichever period is the longer :

Provided that if in any case the Ministry is satisfied that the contribution was paid in consequence of the direction of an officer of the Ministry, it may permit an application for the repayment thereof to be made within such extended period as it thinks fit ; so, however, that—

- (i) no application shall be made more than six years after the due date of the payment of the last of the contributions to which the application relates, or twelve months after the actual date of payment thereof, whichever is the later, and
 - (ii) where an extension of time is allowed hereunder the period to which the application may relate shall not in the case of contributions paid on behalf of any person commence earlier than the end of the insurance year in which (more than six years before the date on which the application for repayment is made) an application for benefit under which a sum by way of benefit was paid, was last made by that person.
- (2) An application under this Regulation shall be made in such form as the Ministry may direct.
- (3) In this Regulation the expression "due date" means the date on which the contribution, if it had been payable, would have been due to be paid."
