

Larceny Act 1916

1916 CHAPTER 50

18 Embezzlement by officer of the Post Office

Every person who, being an officer of the Post Office, steals or embezzles a postal packet in course of transmission by post shall be guilty of felony and on conviction thereof liable—

- (a) if the postal packet contains any chattel, money or valuable security, to penal servitude for life;
- (b) in all other cases to penal servitude for any term not exceeding seven years.
