Each such report shall include a summary of the accounts of the Authority and shall be laid before each House of Parliament as soon as may be after it is received by the Minister.

Preparation of railway
valuation
roll.

3.—(1) As soon as may be after the constitution of the Railway Assessment Authority, and thereafter at intervals of five years, that Authority shall prepare a railway valuation roll showing the net annual and rateable values of every railway hereditament in England.

A roll shall be divided into parts and the particulars relating to each railway company shall be entered in a separate part.

(2) The first railway valuation roll shall come into force on the appointed day, and every subsequent railway valuation roll shall come into force at the expiration of five years from the day appointed by this subsection for the preceding roll to come into force, and the period during which any roll is in force is in this Act referred to as a “quinquennial period.”

(3) The Railway Assessment Authority in preparing a railway valuation roll shall in accordance with the provisions hereafter in this Act contained—

- (i) determine, in the case of a railway company's undertaking which is carried on in England, but not in Scotland, the net annual value of the undertaking as a whole, and in the case of a railway company's undertaking which is carried on in England and in Scotland, the net annual value of the undertaking as a whole, in so far as it is carried on in England; and

- (ii) apportion the net annual value so determined among all the railway hereditaments in England occupied by that railway company; and
- (iii) calculate the rateable value of every such hereditament by reference to the net annual value so apportioned to it.
- A.D. 1930.

4.—(1) Where a railway company's undertaking is carried on in England but not in Scotland, the net annual value of the undertaking as a whole shall for the purposes of the preparation of a railway valuation roll be determined in accordance with the following provisions, that is to say—

Determination of net annual value of railway undertaking carried on in England but not in Scotland.

The Railway Assessment Authority shall—

- (a) ascertain, in the case of the first railway valuation roll, the average net receipts of the company for the accounting years nineteen hundred and twenty-eight and nineteen hundred and twenty-nine, and, in the case of each subsequent roll, the average net receipts of the company for the first five of the six accounting years next preceding the year in which the roll is to come into force; and
- (b) estimate by reference to the average net receipts ascertained as aforesaid the rent at which the railway hereditaments occupied by the company might reasonably be expected to let as a whole from year to year, if the tenant undertook to pay all usual tenant's rates and taxes and tithe rentcharge (if any) and to bear the cost of the repairs and insurance and other expenses (if any) necessary to maintain the hereditaments in a state to command that rent;

and the annual rent so estimated shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the net annual value of the company's undertaking as a whole.

(2) In estimating for the purposes of this section the rent at which the railway hereditaments occupied by a company might reasonably be expected to let as a whole, the Railway Assessment Authority and any court before which any determination of the Authority is under appeal shall not be bound to give effect to any custom

A.D. 1930. — or practice affecting the valuation of railway hereditaments which obtained prior to the passing of this Act in regard to the deduction or allowance to be made in respect of the capital of a tenant, but shall have regard to all relevant circumstances and all material considerations with a view to securing that such estimated rent shall represent a fair and just division of the net receipts as between landlord and tenant.

(3) For the purposes of this section, the net receipts of a railway company in any year shall be taken to be the amount produced by deducting from the total revenue receipts of the company in that year from its undertaking—

(i) any receipts included in that total which—

(a) arise from any interest of the company in any other company or other undertaking (not being a share in a joint undertaking which, for the purposes of this Act, forms part of the company's undertaking); or

(b) arise from any hereditament which is not a railway hereditament occupied by the company; or

(c) consist of royalties or wayleaves, not being royalties or wayleaves payable to the company in respect of the user of a hereditament which is a railway hereditament occupied by the company; or

(d) consist of tolls or dues of such a nature that they could not, under the law in force immediately before the commencement of this Act, have been taken into account in determining the rateable value of any hereditament occupied by the company; or

(e) represent general interest or accretion of capital; or

(f) arise from any hereditament outside Great Britain or from the working of the undertaking of the company outside Great Britain; and

(ii) the amount properly charged in that year as revenue expenditure in respect of management, working, maintenance and renewals (including maintenance and renewal of plant and rolling stock) and in respect of rates and tithe rent-charge (if any), subject, however, to the adjustments hereinafter mentioned, that is to say:—

A.D. 1930.

(a) the amount to be charged shall include any amount charged against the revenue of the year as a transfer in reduction of any sum previously carried to a suspense account in respect of past expenditure of the like kind properly chargeable to revenue, and also any amount properly set aside out of revenue for the purpose of meeting any future expenditure of the like kind properly chargeable to revenue:

(b) from the amount to be charged there shall be excluded such part, if any, of the expenditure of the year as is defrayed out of amounts previously set aside for the purposes aforesaid, or is carried to a suspense account for the purpose of deferring to succeeding years the charging thereof against revenue:

(c) the amount to be charged shall be increased by an amount representing interest for one year, calculated at such rate per centum per annum as the Railway Assessment Authority may determine, upon so much of the balance brought forward at the commencement of that year in any suspense account as represents any such past expenditure as aforesaid:

(d) the amount to be charged shall be reduced by an amount representing interest for one year, calculated at the same rate, upon the balance remaining unexpended at the commencement of the year of any amounts previously set aside out of revenue for the purposes aforesaid and, in determining the balance unexpended of any such amounts, no expenditure in respect of additions or improvements of a capital nature which was charged in the company's accounts for the year ending the thirty-first day of December, nineteen hundred and twenty-three, or any

later year, shall be debited against those amounts:

(e) in ascertaining the amount to be charged as aforesaid and in making any such adjustment as is mentioned in the preceding sub-paragraphs, any expenditure properly attributable to the earning of any such receipts as are specified in paragraph (i) of this subsection and any provision made in respect of any such expenditure by means of a suspense account or of a renewals fund or otherwise shall be disregarded.

(4) For the purposes of this section—

- (i) receipts and expenditure attributable to a joint undertaking carried on by, or on behalf of, two or more railway companies, shall be apportioned among those companies in such proportions as may be agreed between them or, in default of agreement, as may be determined by the Railway Assessment Authority; and
- (ii) where any hereditament is occupied by a railway company partly for the purposes of its undertaking and partly for other purposes, the total revenue receipts of the company shall be increased by such sum as the Authority may determine to represent a fair annual rent for the occupation of that hereditament for those other purposes.

in England and in Scotland.

5.—(1) Where a railway company's undertaking is carried on in England and in Scotland, all the provisions of the last preceding section shall apply subject only to the following modifications, that is to say—

- (i) the Joint Authority, instead of the Railway Assessment Authority, shall, in accordance with the principles laid down in paragraph (a) of subsection (1) and in subsections (3) and (4) of that section, and as if any reference in that paragraph or those subsections to the Railway Assessment Authority were a reference to the Joint Authority, ascertain the average net receipts of the company in so far as the total revenue receipts and expenditure by reference to which average net receipts are required to be ascertained represent— A.D. 1930.

(a) receipts and expenditure in respect of railway working as hereinafter defined; or

(b) other receipts and expenditure not attributable solely to hereditaments in England or solely to hereditaments in Scotland, and shall apportion the total amount of the average net receipts so ascertained by them between England and Scotland upon the basis of a fair and just estimate of the proportions thereof accruing in England and Scotland respectively, and shall certify to the Railway Assessment Authority and to the Assessor of Railways and Canals for Scotland the total amount so ascertained by them and the amounts so apportioned by them to England and Scotland respectively;

- (ii) the Railway Assessment Authority shall, in accordance with the principles aforesaid, ascertain the average net receipts of the company in so far as the total revenue receipts and expenditure by reference to which average net receipts are required to be ascertained represent receipts and expenditure attributable solely to hereditaments in England, not being receipts and expenditure in respect of railway working, and the amount so ascertained by them together with the amount certified to them as aforesaid as apportioned to England shall be taken to be the average net receipts of the company so far as they are attributable to the carrying on of the undertaking in England:

Provided that, if in the case of any company the total revenue receipts and expenditure attributable solely to hereditaments in England disclose on the average a deficiency, the amount so certified to the authority as aforesaid reduced by the amount of that deficiency shall be taken to be the average net receipts of the company so far as they are attributable to the carrying on of the undertaking in England;

A.D. 1930.

(iii) the Railway Assessment Authority shall, in accordance with the principles laid down in paragraph (b) of subsection (1) and in subsection (2) of the last preceding section, estimate by reference to the average net receipts of the company, so far as they are attributable to the carrying on of the undertaking in England, the rent at which the railway hereditaments in England occupied by the company might reasonably be expected to let as a whole from year to year upon the terms specified in the said paragraph (b), and the annual rent so estimated shall for the purposes of this Act be deemed to be the net annual value of the company's undertaking as a whole, in so far as it is carried on in England.

(2) For the purposes of this section, the expression "receipts and expenditure in respect of railway working" means such receipts and expenditure of a railway company as are required by or under any statute to be shown under that heading in the accounts of the company.

Apportionment of net annual value and calculation of rateable value of hereditaments.

6.—(1) The Railway Assessment Authority, having determined in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this Act the net annual value of a railway company's undertaking as a whole, or the net annual value of that undertaking as a whole in so far as it is carried on in England, as the case may be, shall apportion that value among all the railway hereditaments in England occupied by that company, in accordance with an apportionment scheme made by the Authority and confirmed under the provisions hereafter in this Act contained, and the amount so apportioned to any hereditament shall for rating purposes be deemed to be the net annual value of that hereditament.

(2) The Railway Assessment Authority, having determined in accordance with the preceding subsection the net annual value of a railway hereditament, shall calculate therefrom the rateable value of that hereditament in accordance with the provisions of the Rating and Valuation Acts relating to the ascertainment of rateable value by reference to net annual value (including the provisions relating to the adjustment of any value which includes a fraction of a pound), and for the purposes of such calculation any question arising under the Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act, 1928, or section sixty-eight of the Local Government Act, 1929, as to the classification of any hereditament, or as to the purposes for which it is occupied and used, either wholly or in part, or as to the apportionment of the net annual value of the hereditament between occupation and user for one purpose and occupation and user for any other purpose, shall be determined by the Authority.

(3) A railway hereditament occupied by two or more railway companies shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be occupied by each of them severally in the proportions in which under any agreement between them the rates payable in respect of the hereditament are to be borne by them, or, in the absence of any such agreement, in such proportions as the Railway Assessment Authority may determine.

7. The provisions contained in the Third Schedule to this Act shall apply with respect to the procedure to be followed by the Joint Authority and the Railway Assessment Authority in ascertaining and apportioning the net receipts of a railway company, in determining and apportioning the value of a railway company's undertaking as a whole and in determining the values of railway hereditaments.

contained in the Third Schedule to this Act, certified to the Railway Assessment Authority and the Assessor of Railways and Canals for Scotland the amount determined by them to be the average net receipts of a railway company's undertaking carried on in England and in Scotland, so far as those receipts are to be ascertained by the Joint Authority, and their apportionment of that amount between England and Scotland, appeals against that certificate on the ground that the Joint Authority have determined incorrectly the amount of those receipts or have apportioned the amount thereof unfairly, may be brought to the Railway and Canal Commissioners by the railway company concerned, by the county valuation committee of any county and the council of any county borough, being a county or county borough in England within which the undertaking of the company is carried on, by any Scottish public authority and by the rating authority of any area in Scotland within which the undertaking is carried on.

(2) At any time within two months after the Railway Assessment Authority have completed any part of a railway valuation roll, appeals may be brought to the Railway and Canal Commissioners against that part of the roll by the persons and on the grounds hereinafter mentioned, that is to say :—

- (a) on the ground that the Railway Assessment Authority have determined incorrectly the average net receipts of a railway company so far as those receipts fall to be determined by that Authority, or the net annual value of the company's undertaking as a whole, or of the undertaking as a whole in so far as it is carried on in England, by the railway company concerned and by the county valuation committee of any county and the council of any county borough, being a county or county borough within which the undertaking of the company is carried on :

by the railway company concerned and by the county valuation committee of the county and the rating authority of the rating area within which the hereditament is situate and by any person aggrieved :

Upon an appeal under paragraph (b) of this subsection, the Commissioners shall not enter upon any inquiry as to the correctness of the amount determined to be the net annual value of the undertaking as a whole, or of the undertaking as a whole in so far as it is carried on in England, and they shall not upon any appeal under this subsection enter upon any enquiry as to the correctness of any amount, or the fairness of any apportionment, certified by the Joint Authority.

(3) The Railway Assessment Authority and the Joint Authority may, if they think fit, appear as respondents to any appeal under this section, and such other persons may appear as respondents to the appeal as may be specified by rules made under section twenty of the Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1888, as amended and applied by this section.

Vict. c. 25.

(4) The provisions of the Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1888, as amended by any subsequent enactment, relating to the procedure for the determination of questions under that Act (including the provisions relating to appeals) shall apply to the determination by the Commissioners of appeals under this section subject to the following modifications—

(a) the ex-officio Commissioners for England and Scotland and one only of the appointed Commissioners shall attend at the hearing of an appeal under subsection (1) of this section and, in relation to any such appeal, subsection (3) of section five of the Act, and in subsection (1) of section four of the Act the words from “and an” to the end of the subsection, shall not apply;

(b) the superior court of appeal to which appeals from the Commissioners are to lie shall be the House of Lords, and the Appellate Jurisdiction Act, 1876, shall apply as if the Commissioners when sitting to hear an appeal under this section were included amongst the courts mentioned in section three of that Act;

(5) If on the hearing of any appeal under this section the Commissioners are of opinion that any contention of the appellant is well founded, they shall give effect to their opinion in the following manner—

(i) in the case of an appeal under subsection (1) they shall amend the certificate given by the Joint Authority in such manner as they think fit, and

(ii) in the case of an appeal under subsection (2)—

(a) if, by reason of the relevant part of the railway valuation roll not having been revised in accordance with the next succeeding section, they are unable to specify any value to be entered therein, they shall give to the Railway Assessment Authority such directions to be followed by them in revising that part as will ensure that as so revised it will give effect to the opinion of the Commissioners; and

(b) if the relevant part of the railway valuation roll has at the date of their decision been so revised, they shall direct the Railway Assessment Authority to make in that part as so revised such alterations with respect to the hereditament to which the appeal relates as the Commissioners think fit.

10.—(1) No alteration shall be made in any part of the railway valuation roll until six months have elapsed from the completion of that part, or so long as there is pending any appeal the determination of which may necessitate the alteration of the amount stated in that part as the net annual value of the undertaking of the railway company as a whole, or, as the case may be, of the undertaking as a whole in so far as

Revision of railway valuation roll.

A.D. 1930. — it is carried on in England; but on the expiration of the said period of six months, or, as the case may be, so soon thereafter as every such appeal as aforesaid has been finally determined, the Railway Assessment Authority shall revise that part of the roll, by making such alterations therein as are necessary to give effect to, or are consequential on, any decision on appeal (whether or not such an appeal as is mentioned in this subsection) given up to that time and any decision of the Authority given up to that time upon a representation made to them under the next succeeding section :

Provided that, if no such alteration is necessary, the Authority shall confirm that part of the roll, and for the purposes of this Act such a confirmation shall be deemed to be a revision.

For the purposes of this subsection, an appeal shall be deemed to be still pending, and not to have been finally determined, until it is withdrawn, or until the Commissioners have given their decision thereon and either the time has elapsed for appealing against that decision, or any appeal against that decision has been withdrawn or decided.

(2) Except in accordance with the provisions of the next succeeding section, no alteration shall be made in any part of the railway valuation roll after it has been revised by the Railway Assessment Authority under the last preceding subsection other than such alterations with respect to any particular hereditament as may be necessitated by the decision of any appeal with respect to that hereditament which was outstanding at the date of the revision.

Alterations
of railway
valuation
roll during quinquennial period.

11.—(1) If at any time during a quinquennial period it is represented to the Railway Assessment Authority by the railway company concerned or by the rating authority of the rating area or the county valuation committee of the county within which the hereditament is situate, or by any person aggrieved, that—

(a) a hereditament entered in any part of the railway valuation roll as a railway hereditament occupied by the company ought to cease to be so entered by reason of some change which has, since the date on which the draft of that

- part was settled, occurred in the occupation, or in the character of the occupation, of that hereditament; or
- (b) a hereditament not entered in the roll as a railway hereditament occupied by the company ought to be so entered by reason of some change which has, since the date on which the draft of the relevant part of the roll was settled, occurred in the occupation, or the character of the occupation, of that hereditament; or
 - (c) any premises which have been treated by the Authority as forming part of a railway hereditament occupied by the company, or as not forming part of any railway hereditament so occupied, ought to be treated differently by reason of some change which has, since the date on which the draft of the relevant part of the roll was settled, occurred in the occupation, or the character of the occupation, of those premises; or
 - (d) the value of a hereditament entered in any part of the roll as a railway hereditament occupied by the company has, since the date on which the draft of that part was settled, been affected by the making of structural alterations, or by the total or partial destruction of any building or other erection by fire or other physical cause; or
 - (e) the value of a hereditament entered in any part of the roll as a railway hereditament occupied by the company is incorrect by reason of some clerical or arithmetical error;

the Authority shall—

- (i) if they have not already revised the relevant part of the roll, make in the course of their revision thereof such alteration, if any, as they think fit; or
- (ii) if they have already revised that part, make in that part as revised such alteration, if any, with respect to the hereditament to which the representation relates, as they think fit:

Provided that no representation shall be made under this subsection with respect to any matter as to

A.D. 1930. which a representation was made to the Authority under — the Third Schedule to this Act.

(2) In any case where a representation is made under this section with respect to any hereditament, the Railway Assessment Authority shall give notice of their determination to the railway company concerned, to the county valuation committee of the county and the rating authority of the rating area within which the hereditament is situate, and to any person who appeared before the Authority as a party on the consideration of the representation.

(3) If, in any case where a representation is made under this section with respect to any hereditament, the railway company concerned, or the county valuation committee of the county, or the rating authority of the rating area, within which the hereditament is situate, or any person aggrieved, is dissatisfied with the determination of the Railway Assessment Authority, they may within such time as may be prescribed by rules made under subsection (4) of section nine of this Act appeal to the Railway and Canal Commissioners and the Commissioners may make any order which the Authority might have made.

(4) The provisions of subsections (3), (4) and (5) of the said section nine shall apply in relation to appeals under this section as they apply in relation to appeals under subsection (2) of that section.

- (a) in a case where the existing total is greater than the original total, reduce the net annual value of each railway hereditament occupied by the company by the amount which bears to the difference between the existing total and the original total the same proportion as the net annual value of the hereditament bears to the existing total;
- (b) in a case where the existing total is less than the original total, increase the net annual value of each railway hereditament occupied by the company by the amount which bears to the difference between the existing total and the original total the same proportion as the net annual value of the hereditament bears to the existing total;
- (c) make such alteration in the rateable value of each hereditament as may be necessary to give effect to the provisions of subsection (2) of section six of this Act with respect to the calculation of rateable value by reference to net annual value.

and the scheme may contain such incidental and consequential provisions as appear to the Authority to be necessary or desirable.

(3) The Railway Assessment Authority shall, as soon as they have prepared a scheme in accordance with the provisions of this section, give public notice thereof in the prescribed form and manner, and after hearing and considering any representations which may be made to them by any railway company, any county valuation committee, or the council of any county borough, or any other rating authority whose interests are in the opinion of the Railway Assessment Authority specially affected, within such period, not being less than two months, as may be specified in the notice, shall make in the scheme such modifications, if any, as they consider necessary and submit the scheme to the Minister.

MENT AUTHORITY AND OF THE JOINT AUTHORITY.

1. The expenses of the Joint Authority shall be apportioned by that Authority between England and Scotland in the same proportions as those in which the aggregate of the net receipts of the companies whose undertakings are carried on in England and in Scotland, as ascertained by that Authority, stands apportioned between those countries at the close of the period of account in which the expenses are chargeable, and the amount so apportioned to England shall be paid to the Joint Authority by the Railway Assessment Authority.

2. The expenses of the Railway Assessment Authority, including any sum paid to the Joint Authority in accordance with the preceding paragraph, shall be apportioned by the Railway Assessment Authority in the manner hereinafter provided among the councils of the several counties and county boroughs in England, and the Authority may issue precepts to those councils requiring payment of any amount apportioned upon them under this paragraph, and a council shall pay in accordance with any precept so issued to it the amount thereby demanded out of the rate or fund applicable to the payment of its general expenses.

PART II.

1. For the purposes of any valuation list which will be in force at any time between the thirty-first day of March, nineteen hundred and thirty-one, and the date on which the relevant part of the first railway valuation roll has been revised by the Railway Assessment Authority, all hereditaments shewn in the valuation list in force on the said thirty-first day of March as being freight transport hereditaments occupied by the company shall be treated as if they were for the time being shewn in the railway valuation roll as railway hereditaments :
