

British Museum Act 1963

1963 CHAPTER 24

An Act to alter the composition of the Trustees of the British Museum, to provide for the separation from the British Museum of the British Museum (Natural History), to make new provision with respect to the regulation of the two Museums and their collections in place of that made by the British Museum Act 1753 and enactments amending or supplementing that Act, and for purposes connected with the matters aforesaid.

[10th July 1963]

Commencement Information

II Act wholly in force at 30.9.1963 see s. 13\(2\) and S.I. 1963/1546.

1

- (1) From the commencement of this Act, the body known as the Trustees of the British Museum shall continue to exist as a body corporate, with perpetual succession and a common seal, having the general management and control of the British Museum, but shall consist of twenty-five persons appointed as follows, that is to say—
 - (a) one appointed by Her Majesty;
 - (b) fifteen appointed by the Prime Minister;
 - (c) four appointed by the [^{F1}Lord President of the Council] on the nominations of the Presidents of the Royal Society, the Royal Academy, the British Academy and the Society of Antiquaries of London respectively; and
 - (d) five appointed by the Trustees of the British Museum.
- (2) The provisions of the First Schedule to this Act shall have effect with respect to the tenure of office and proceedings of the Trustees.

Status: Point in time view as at 11/06/2004.

Changes to legislation: There are currently no known outstanding effects for the British Museum Act 1963. (See end of Document for details)

Modifications etc. (not altering text)

- C1 Functions of the Lord President of the Council under s. 1(1)(c) transferred (3.7.1992) to the Secretary of State by virtue of S.I. 1992/1311, art. 3\(1\), Sch. 1 Pt.I.

2 General Powers of Trustees.

The Trustees of the British Museum shall have power, subject to the restrictions imposed on them by virtue of any enactment (whether contained in this Act or not), to enter into contracts and other agreements, to acquire and hold land and other property, and to do all other things that appear to them necessary or expedient for the purpose of their functions.

3 Keeping and inspection of collections.

- (1) Subject to the provisions of this Act, it shall be the duty of the Trustees of the British Museum to keep the objects comprised in the collections of the Museum within the authorised repositories of the Museum, except in so far as they may consider it expedient to remove them temporarily for any purpose connected with the administration of the Museum and the care of its collections.
- (2) Where it appears to the Trustees that any such objects cannot conveniently be kept within the authorised repositories, they may store them at other premises in Great Britain if satisfied that they can be stored in those premises without detriment to the purposes of the Museum.
- (3) It shall be the duty of the Trustees to secure, so far as appears to them to be practicable, that the objects comprised in the collections of the Museum (including objects stored under the preceding subsection) are, when required for inspection by members of the public, made available in one or other of the authorised repositories under such conditions as the Trustees think fit to impose for preserving the safety of the collections and ensuring the proper administration of the Museum.
- (4) Objects vested in the Trustees as part of the collections of the Museum shall not be disposed of by them otherwise than under section 5 or 9 of this Act [^{F2}or section 6 of the Museums and Galleries Act 1992].

Textual Amendments

- F2 Words in s. 3(4) inserted (1.9.1992) by Museums and Galleries Act 1992 \(c. 44\), s. 11(2), Sch. 8 Pt. I para. 5\(a\); S.I. 1992/1874, art.2.

4 Lending of objects.

The Trustees of the British Museum may lend for public exhibition (whether in the United Kingdom or elsewhere) any object comprised in the collections of the Museum:

Provided that in deciding whether or not to lend any such object, and in determining the time for which, and the conditions subject to which, any such object is to be lent, the Trustees shall have regard to the interests of students and other persons visiting the Museum, to the physical condition and degree of rarity of the object in question, and to any risks to which it is likely to be exposed.

Status: Point in time view as at 11/06/2004.

Changes to legislation: There are currently no known outstanding effects for the British Museum Act 1963. (See end of Document for details)

5 Disposal of objects.

- (1) The Trustees of the British Museum may sell, exchange, give away or otherwise dispose of any object vested in them and comprised in their collections if—
 - (a) the object is a duplicate of another such object, or
 - (b) the object appears to the Trustees to have been made not earlier than the year 1850, and substantially consists of printed matter of which a copy made by photography or a process akin to photography is held by the Trustees, or
 - (c) in the opinion of the Trustees the object is unfit to be retained in the collections of the Museum and can be disposed of without detriment to the interests of students:

Provided that where an object has become vested in the Trustees by virtue of a gift or bequest the powers conferred by this subsection shall not be exercisable as respects that object in a manner inconsistent with any condition attached to the gift or bequest.

- (2) The Trustees may destroy or otherwise dispose of any object vested in them and comprised in their collections if satisfied that it has become useless for the purposes of the Museum by reason of damage, physical deterioration, or infestation by destructive organisms.
- (3) Money accruing to the Trustees by virtue of an exercise of the powers conferred by this section [^{F3}or section 6 of the Museums and Galleries Act 1992] shall be laid out by them in the purchase of objects to be added to the collections of the Museum.

Textual Amendments

- F3 Words in s. 5(3) inserted (1.9.1992) by Museums and Galleries Act 1992 \(c. 44\), s. 11(2), Sch. 8 Pt. 1 para. 5(b); S.I. 1992/1874, art.2.

6 Staff.

- (1) There shall be a Director of the British Museum, who shall be a person appointed by the Trustees with the approval of the Prime Minister and shall hold office on such terms and subject to such conditions as the Treasury may direct, and who shall be responsible to the Trustees for the care of all property in their possession and for the general administration of the Museum.
- (2) The Trustees may, subject to the consent of the [^{F4}Minister for the Civil Service] as to numbers and conditions of service, appoint such other officers and servants as the Trustees think fit; and there shall be paid to the Director and to officers and servants so appointed such salaries, allowances and other remuneration as the Treasury may determine.
- (3) ^{F5}

Textual Amendments

- F4 Words substituted by virtue of S.I. 1968/1656, arts. 2\(1\)\(e\), 3(2)

7 Reports by Trustees.

The Trustees of the British Museum shall within three years after the commencement of this Act and subsequently at intervals of not more than three years prepare and lay before each House of Parliament a report on the Museum.

8 Separation of Natural History Museum.

- (1) There shall be a body corporate, with perpetual succession and a common seal, known as the Trustees of the [^{F6}Natural History Museum] and hereafter in this Act referred to as “the Natural History Trustees”, which from the commencement of this Act shall have the general management and control of the [^{F6}the Natural History Museum]; and on that commencement the functions with respect to that Museum of the Trustees of the British Museum shall cease.
- (2) The Natural History Trustees shall consist of twelve persons appointed as follows, that is to say—
 - (a) eight appointed by the Prime Minister;
 - (b) one appointed [^{F7}by the Lord President of the Council on] the nomination of the President of the Royal Society ; and
 - (c) three appointed by the Natural History Trustees.
- (3) Sections 2 to 7 of this Act and the First Schedule thereto shall apply in relation to the [^{F6}Natural History Museum] and the Trustees thereof as they apply in relation to the British Museum and the Trustees thereof, but with the following adaptations, that is to say—
 - (a) section 4 shall apply as if, after the words “may lend for public exhibition” there were inserted the words “or research”;
 - (b) the First Schedule shall apply as if in paragraph 4 (which specifies the quorum at meetings) the word “four” were substituted for the word “six”.
- (4) The Second Schedule to this Act shall have effect in relation to transitional matters arising in consequence of the enactment of this section.
