

Transport (Wales) Act 2006

2006 CHAPTER 5

Local transport functions

3 Local transport plans

The Schedule (which makes provision about local transport plans) has effect.

4 Arrangements for discharge of transport functions

- (1) The Assembly may direct two or more local authorities in Wales to enter into arrangements—
 - (a) in the terms specified in the direction, and
 - (b) in relation to the discharge of transport functions specified in the direction.
- (2) The arrangements may in particular be or include arrangements for the joint discharge of transport functions.
- (3) In deciding whether to give a direction under this section in relation to particular functions, the Assembly must in particular have regard to the interests of economy, efficiency and effectiveness in the discharge of the functions.
- (4) The Assembly may vary or revoke a direction given under this section in relation to particular functions by a further such direction, but only if it is satisfied that, on variation or revocation, satisfactory arrangements will be in place for the discharge of those functions.
- (5) Before giving, varying or revoking a direction under this section the Assembly must consult the local authorities concerned and any other persons it considers appropriate.
- (6) “Transport function” means a function of a local authority in Wales relating to transport.
