COMMENTARY ON SECTIONS

Part 2 – Collective Benefits

Section 19: Valuation reports

Section 20: Valuation process

- 74. Section 19 gives a regulation making power which may require those schemes offering collective benefits to obtain a document, prepared by an actuary, which values the assets held by the scheme for the purposes of providing collective benefits and assesses how likely it is that the scheme will be able to meet any targets in relation to those benefits. This document is defined in the Act as a 'valuation report'. Among other matters, the regulations may make provision about the content and frequency of valuation reports, may require that the actuary preparing the report must have particular qualifications or meet other requirements and may require the actuary to certify whether the probability falls within the required probability range or not.
- 75. Section 20 provides for a power to make provision about the methods or assumptions to be used by an actuary when drawing up a valuation report. Regulations made under this section may require an actuary to have regard to guidance when preparing the valuation report and may impose other requirements on the actuary.
- 76. The section also contains a power to require the trustees or managers to decide which methods or assumptions the actuary should use and a power for regulations to set out matters that the trustees or managers must take into account, or principles they must follow, when making that decision. These principles might, for example, state the parameters of the economic and actuarial assumptions that must be used.
