3 Appropriation of supplementary provision for 2021-22

- (1) For the purposes of—
- (a) appropriating the amount of resources the use of which for the year ending with 31 March 2022 is authorised by section 2(1), and
 - (b) appropriating the amount of money the issue of which out of the Consolidated Fund is authorised by section 2(3),
- the Main Estimates Act 2021 is to be treated as having effect with the adjustments provided for in Schedule 1 to this Act.
- (2) Schedule 1 specifies the amounts by which adjustments are to be treated as made to the amounts originally specified in the Scheduled Estimates in the Main Estimates Act 2021.
- (3) For the purpose of making the adjustments in Schedule 1—
- (a) a negative adjustment has effect to reduce an amount of authorised expenditure and, where applied to an estimated surplus (which is expressed as if it were itself a negative amount), increases the amount of the surplus, and
 - (b) a positive adjustment has effect to increase an amount of authorised expenditure and, where applied to an estimated surplus, reduces it.
- (4) Accordingly—
- (a) where an adjustment by a negative amount of more than the amount itself is made to an amount of authorised expenditure, what results is an estimated surplus, and
 - (b) where an adjustment by a positive amount of more than the amount itself is made to the amount of an estimated surplus, what results is an amount of authorised expenditure.
- (5) Where, in Schedule 1, a description of matters to which expenditure may relate or from which income may arise (“description A”) differs from the description contained in the corresponding part of the Scheduled Estimates in the Main Estimates Act 2021 (“description B”), Schedule 1 has effect for adjusting that corresponding part by substituting description A for description B.

Changes to legislation: There are currently no known outstanding effects for the Supply and Appropriation (Anticipation and Adjustments) Act 2022. (See end of Document for details)

- (6) Where, in relation to a department, other person or service to which a Scheduled Estimate in the Main Estimates Act 2021 relates, Schedule 1 contains a new description of matters to which expenditure may relate or from which income may arise, Schedule 1 has effect for adjusting that Scheduled Estimate by treating the new description as included in it.
- (7) In this section—
“estimated surplus” has the same meaning as in the Main Estimates Act 2021;
“Main Estimates Act 2021” means the Supply and Appropriation (Main Estimates) Act 2021.
- (8) The adjustments made by virtue of this section are to be treated as having had effect from the beginning of 1 April 2021.

Excesses for 2020-21

4 Authorisation of excesses for 2020-21

- (1) The amount up to which authorisation was conferred for the use of resources for the year ending with 31 March 2021 is to be treated as further increased, for the purpose of making good excesses, by £144,494,000.
- (2) The further amount treated as authorised by subsection \(1\) is to be treated as authorised for use for current purposes.
- (3) The increases for which this section provides are to be treated as having had effect from the beginning of 1 April 2020.

5 Appropriation of excesses for 2020-21

- (1) For the purpose of appropriating the amount of resources the use of which for the year ending with 31 March 2021 is authorised by section 4(1), the Main Estimates Act 2020 is treated as having effect with the adjustments provided for in Schedule 2 to this Act.
- (2) Schedule 2 specifies the amounts by which adjustments are to be treated as made to the amounts specified in the Scheduled Estimates in the Main Estimates Act 2020 and to the amounts treated as so specified.
- (3) For the purpose of making the adjustments in Schedule 2 an adjustment has effect to increase an amount of authorised expenditure and, where applied to an estimated surplus, reduces it.

Changes to legislation: There are currently no known outstanding effects for the Supply and Appropriation (Anticipation and Adjustments) Act 2022. (See end of Document for details)

- (4) Accordingly, where an adjustment of more than the amount itself is made to the amount of an estimated surplus, what results is an amount of authorised expenditure.
- (5) Where, in Schedule 2, a description of matters to which expenditure may relate or from which income may arise (“description A”) differs from the description contained in the corresponding part of the Scheduled Estimates in the Main Estimates Act 2020 (“description B”), Schedule 2 has effect for adjusting that corresponding part by substituting description A for description B.
- (6) Where, in relation to a department, other person or service to which a Scheduled Estimate in the Main Estimates Act 2020 relates, Schedule 2 contains a new description of matters to which expenditure may relate or from which income may arise, Schedule 2 has effect for adjusting that Scheduled Estimate by treating the new description as included in it.
- (7) In this section a reference to an amount treated as specified in a Scheduled Estimate is a reference to any amount treated as so specified in consequence of any adjustment made by virtue of the Supply and Appropriation (Anticipation and Adjustments) Act 2021, and references to adjusting such an amount are to be read accordingly.
- (8) In this section—
 “estimated surplus” has the same meaning as in the Main Estimates Act 2020;
 “Main Estimates Act 2020” means the Supply and Appropriation (Main Estimates) Act 2020.
- (9) The adjustments made by virtue of this section are to be treated as having had effect from the beginning of 1 April 2020.
