

SCHEDULE

PART I

Amendments of the Local Government Staffs (War Service) Act, 1939.

- 1 Where a person serving in any superannuate capacity specified in the first column of the Schedule to the Act ceased so to serve in order to undertake war-service and had not then attained the age of eighteen years, and, if he had attained that age, any of his service before the date of the cessation would have been contributing service or service for the purposes of a local Act scheme, then, if he attains that age while in war service, he shall be entitled to reckon so much of his war service as falls after the attainment of that age as contributing service or service for the purposes of that local Act scheme, and section four of the Act shall have effect in respect of that part of his war service as if he had not ceased to serve as aforesaid in order to undertake war service until immediately after the date upon which he attains that age.
