    - (ii) that he was interested in the said rents and profits jointly or in common with another person.

Concurrent interests and interests in expectancy (other cases)

5.—(1) This regulation shall have effect for the purpose of assessing levy in respect of a chargeable act or event where paragraph (2), (3), (4) or (5) of this regulation applies.

(2) This paragraph applies where—

- (a) a person (in this paragraph referred to as “the deceased”) who was a predecessor of the chargeable owner died within the six-year period;
- (b) an interest in the chargeable land passed on the death of the deceased and estate duty was leviable in respect of that interest;
- (c) that interest was an interest which the deceased held jointly or in common with another person;
- (d) that interest either would have been the chargeable interest if the deceased had been solely entitled to it or was an interest in part of the chargeable land and would have been the chargeable interest if it had extended to the whole of that land and the deceased had been solely entitled to it; and
- (e) there has not before the relevant date been any previous chargeable act or event in connection with which an allowance under Schedule 7 or these regulations fell or falls to be made in respect of that interest.

(3) This paragraph applies where the circumstances were not all those described in paragraph (1) of regulation 3 but would have been if one or both of the following conditions had been fulfilled, that is to say,—

- (i) that the interest of the deceased had extended to all the rents and profits of the dutiable land;
- (ii) that the deceased had not been one of two or more joint tenants or interested in the rents and profits of the dutiable land jointly or in common with another person.

(4) This paragraph applies—

- (a) where the circumstances were not all those described in paragraph (1) of regulation 4 but would have been if one or both of the following conditions had been fulfilled, that is to say—

- (i) that the interest in expectancy referred to in that paragraph had extended to the whole income of the dutiable land;
  - (ii) that the said interest had not been an interest which the remainderman held jointly or in common with another person; or
- (b) where the circumstances were as described in subparagraphs (a), (b), (c), (d) and (f) of that regulation and the said interest in expectancy fell into possession before the death of the deceased on a date within the six-year period.
- (5) This paragraph applies where—
- (a) an interest in expectancy in the dutiable land passed on the death of the remainderman who died within the six-year period, and at the date of that death the dutiable land was either settled land or land held upon trust for sale;
  - (b) estate duty was leviable in respect of that interest and the person accountable for duty did not exercise his option under section 7(6) of the Finance Act 1894 to pay the duty when the interest fell into possession; and
  - (c) there has not before the relevant date been any previous chargeable act or event in connection with which an allowance under Schedule 7 or these regulations fell or falls to be made in respect of that interest.
- (6) If the chargeable owner, or a successor in title of his in whom the chargeable interest has become vested by operation of law, serves on the Commission a notice (in this regulation referred to as a “notice of claim”) specifying that interest and stating—
- (a) that a person specified in the notice died on a date so specified, and that a grant of probate or of letters of administration in respect of his estate was obtained on a date and at a registry so specified;
  - (b) that estate duty was payable on the death of the person specified in the notice; and
  - (c) that the circumstances are those set out in paragraph (2), (3), (4) or (5) of this regulation (as the case may be);
- and requesting the Commission to make an allowance under this regulation, the Commission may make such allowance under Schedule 7 as, after consultation with the Commissioners of Inland Revenue and having regard to the provisions of Part II of Schedule 7, they determine to be appropriate.
- (7) In any case where the Commission decide to make an allowance under this regulation, they shall in writing inform the person who executed the notice of claim at the address of that person given in that notice of the amount of such allowance, and paragraph 3 of Schedule 7 shall then apply as it applies where an appropriate allowance falls to be made in accordance with paragraph 2 of that Schedule.

Given under the official seal of the Minister of Housing and Local Government on 31st March 1967.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations.)

These Regulations provide for an allowance in respect of estate duty to be made on an assessment of betterment levy in certain cases for which Schedule 7 to the Land Commission Act 1967 does not provide.

Regulation 3 provides for an allowance to be made on the death of a sole tenant for life of settled land, of a person with a sole life interest in land held under a trust for sale or of a person interested in either kind of land for the life of another person.

Regulation 4 provides for the case where, on the death of a person entitled to an interest in expectancy, his personal representatives have exercised their option to defer payment of estate duty in respect of that interest until it falls into possession and the interest falls into possession on the death of a person entitled to a prior life interest.

In all the above cases the allowance is only given where the death on which estate duty becomes payable is not more than six years before the chargeable act or event which attracts levy, while the two Regulations, with the Schedule, provide for the allowance to be given in accordance with the formula prescribed by Schedule 7.

Regulation 5 deals with cases concerning life interests and interests in expectancy for which Regulations 3 and 4 do not provide. The formula prescribed by Schedule 7 is not applicable in these cases, and the amount of the allowance is left to the discretion of the Land Commission, who are required to consult the Commissioners of Inland Revenue and to give regard to the provisions of Schedule 7 in exercising their discretion.

The Regulations apply to England and Wales.
