EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations.)

These Regulations provide origin rules for goods which are entitled to preferential rates of, or exemption from, customs duties as goods of Greece, Israel, Lebanon, Malta or Spain by virtue of the provisions specified in Regulation 2(1). (Under those provisions goods of those countries are exempted from increases in protective import duties under the Import Duties Act 1958 and in the protective elements of revenue duties which would otherwise apply from 1st January 1975, and in certain cases are subject to relief from customs duties within quotas.)

For the purposes of those provisions goods are to be treated as grown, produced or manufactured or as originating in the countries mentioned above if they satisfy the relevant requirements of the Association and other Agreements, specified in Regulations 3 and 4, between the European Economic Community and those countries.

The Regulations do not affect the operation of the Origin of Goods (Petroleum Products) Regulations 1973, which lay down origin rules for petroleum products in the case of the countries concerned. (Nor do they affect the operation of any rules of origin relating to Malta as a country of the Commonwealth preference area or part of that area.) To the extent that the Regulations apply, the question of origin in Lebanon or Malta will not be determined by the Developing Countries (Origin of Goods) Regulations 1971, but the question of origin in Algeria will be so determined.
