EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Order)

This Order is needed in consequence of the coming into force on 1st March 2002 of Council Regulation (EC) No. 44/2001 of 22nd December 2000 on jurisdiction and the recognition and enforcement of judgments in civil and commercial matters (“the Regulation”). The Regulation applies to all Member States except Denmark.

The Civil Jurisdiction and Judgments Order 2001, which, for the most part, will also come into force on 1st March 2002, makes the main legislative changes needed in respect of the Regulation. This Order in Council applies specified provisions of the Civil Jurisdiction and Judgments Order 2001 to authentic instruments and court settlements from other Member States bound by the Regulation, which by virtue of Chapter IV of the Regulation are enforceable in the same manner as judgments.

Authentic instruments usually take the form of agreements containing obligations, which are drawn up by the parties before a notary public. They exist in most European legal systems, as do court settlements, which are settlements of legal proceedings agreed by the parties and approved by the court, and which are enforceable without having to be drawn up as judgments.

Paragraphs 1 to 6 and 8 of the Civil Jurisdiction and Judgments Order 2001 are applied, with modifications, and section 48 of the Civil Jurisdiction and Judgments Act 1982 is applied, to such documents and settlements as if they were judgments to which the Regulation applies.

Status:

Point in time view as at 01/03/2002.

Changes to legislation:

There are currently no known outstanding effects for the The Civil Jurisdiction and Judgments (Authentic Instruments and Court Settlements) Order 2001.
