EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations amend the Local Education Authority (Behaviour Support Plans) Regulations 1998 in relation to England only on 1st April 2001.

A local education authority are required under the 1988 Regulations to consult specified persons when preparing or revising a statement setting out the arrangements for educating children with behavioural difficulties in their area.

These Regulations replace the reference to consultation with every Training and Enterprise Council which provides assistance to persons who reside within the authority's area, to consultation with the local learning and skills council which carries out functions on behalf of the Learning and Skills Council for England in the authority's area.

These Regulations also provide for the consultation to be with the justices' chief executive rather than the justices' clerk, for each petty sessions area any part of which lies within the authority's area. This change results from the transfer of the administrative functions of justices' clerks to justices' chief executives by section 90 of, and Schedule 13 to, the Access to Justice Act 1999 (c. 22) on 1st April 2001.
