4.1 The Work and Families Act 2006 (c.18) and the Work and Families (Northern Ireland) Order 2006 (SI 2006/1947 (N.I.16)) were introduced to make provision for statutory rights to leave and pay in connection with the birth or adoption of children.

4.2 Additional Statutory Paternity Pay was introduced in Great Britain by regulations made under Part 12ZA of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits Act 1992 (c.4) as amended by the Work and Families Act 2006 and, in Northern Ireland, by regulations made under Part 12ZA of the Social Security Contributions and Benefits (Northern Ireland) Act 1992 (c.7) as amended by the Work and Families (Northern Ireland) Order 2006. These regulations also resulted in Statutory Paternity Pay being renamed as Ordinary Statutory Paternity Pay.

4.3 These statutory instruments are being made to substitute references to Statutory Paternity Pay in the existing legislation relating to Social Security

Contributions so as to include Additional Statutory Paternity Pay and to recognise the change in name of Statutory Paternity pay to Ordinary Statutory Paternity Pay.

11. Regulating small business

11.1 The legislation applies to small business.

11.2 To minimise the impact of the requirements on firms employing up to 20 people, the approach taken in the legislation which introduced additional statutory paternity pay was to make the administration of the scheme as “light touch” as possible. In addition, small businesses (defined as paying £45,000 or less in National Insurance Contributions) can claim 104.5% of the payments made.

11.3 The introduction of Additional Statutory Paternity Pay applies to a small business as employees of all businesses who meet the relevant criteria can claim. The measures outlined in the previous paragraph will help ensure that the effect on small business is minimised both in terms of administrative burdens and financial impact.
