(2) An application under paragraph (1) must be made jointly by both parties.

(3) In an application under paragraph (1), the parties must provide—

(b) such other information as the Registrar General indicates is required by these Regulations to be registered in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register.

(4) If, on receipt of a completed application under paragraph (1), the Registrar General requires further information to enable the registration of the qualifying marriage in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register, the Registrar General may request it from the parties.

Entries in Gender Recognition Marriage Register and marking of existing marriage entries

5.—(1) On receipt of a duly completed application under regulation 4(1), and any additional information requested in accordance with regulation 4(4), the Registrar General must—

(a) make an entry in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register containing the particulars referred to in regulation 6;

(b) secure that any marriage register entry relating to the qualifying marriage in the custody of the Registrar General is marked with the words “Re-registered by the Registrar General”; and

(c) make traceable the connection between the entry in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register and the parties’ marriage register entry.

(2) No certified copy of the parties’ marriage register entry is to include anything marked by virtue of paragraph (1)(b).

(3) Information kept by the Registrar General for the purposes of paragraph (1)(c) is not to be open to public inspection or search.

Particulars to be entered in Gender Recognition Marriage Register

6.—(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2) and regulations 7 to 11, the particulars to be registered in the parties’ entry in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register are the same particulars as were required by law to be registered in the parties’ marriage register entry.

(2) Any entry in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register must reflect the name and gender referred to on the full gender recognition certificate, or certificates, granted to one or both parties.

(3) There is no requirement for an entry in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register to be signed by any person, but (except as provided in regulations 7 to 11) the Registrar General must register the name of any person who signed the parties’ marriage register entry (or, in the case of a marriage resulting from the conversion of a civil partnership, their civil partnership register entry) as if they had signed the entry in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register.

(4) Where a marriage is registered in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register as having been solemnized in Wales, the particulars to be contained in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register must be recorded in English, and must also be recorded in Welsh if the parties to the marriage so elect, and provide the required particulars in both languages.

(3) This regulation is subject to regulation 8(1).

Qualifying marriages of same sex couples

8.—(1) Unless the parties to the qualifying marriage specifically request the Registrar General to do so, the Registrar General must not register in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register any of the particulars required by regulations 6(1) or 7 if to do so would indicate that a marriage of a same sex couple was entered into before the date on which the marriage could have been entered into under the 2013 Act.

(2) If, by virtue of the prohibition in paragraph (1), the Registrar General is unable to register the date on which the qualifying marriage took place, the marriage is to be registered as if it had been entered into on the date on which it is registered in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register, and, except as mentioned in paragraphs (3) and (4), the particulars to be recorded (including particulars relating to the superintendent registrar and registrar) must be those applicable on that date.

- (b) the witnesses to the marriage are to be recorded in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register as they were in the parties' marriage register entry (or, in the case of a marriage resulting from the conversion of a civil partnership, in their civil partnership register entry); and
- (c) subject to paragraph (4) and regulations 9 and 10, the place at which the qualifying marriage was entered into is to be registered in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register as it was in the parties' marriage register entry (or, in the case of a marriage resulting from the conversion of a civil partnership, in their civil partnership register entry).

(4) If the place required to be registered under paragraph (3)(c) is a place at which, on the date of registration in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register, the parties' marriage could not be solemnized under the law of England and Wales, the marriage is to be registered as if it had been solemnized in the presence of a superintendent registrar in a register office in the form prescribed on the applicable date under section 55(1) of the Marriage Act 1949.

(5) Nothing in this regulation affects the continuity of any qualifying marriage.

(2) Paragraph (1) does not apply if, on the applicable date, the authorities in the country or territory in which the marriage was solemnized had notified the Secretary of State in writing that there is no objection to marriages of same sex couples, or between a man and a woman (as the case may be) taking place in that country or territory, and had not revoked that consent.

(3) Where paragraph (1) applies, the marriage is to be registered in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register as if it had been solemnized in the presence of a superintendent registrar in a register office in the form prescribed on the applicable date under section 55(1) of the Marriage Act 1949.

Power to amend particulars

11.—(1) The Registrar General may, after consulting the parties to a qualifying marriage, amend the particulars required to be registered under these Regulations as the Registrar General considers necessary to ensure that the particulars registered in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register do not disclose that one party has, or both parties have, obtained a gender recognition certificate.

(2) Under paragraph (1), the Registrar General may, in particular, substitute for the name or names of one or both witnesses to the marriage (or, in the case of a marriage resulting from the conversion of a civil partnership, the witnesses to that civil partnership), the name or names of one or two other persons who were present at the marriage (or civil partnership, as the case may be).

12.—(1) The Registrar General must make arrangements for each entry made in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register to be included in the relevant index kept in the General Register Office.

(3) In an application under paragraph (1), the parties must provide—

(a) the date on, and place at which their civil partnership was formed; and

(b) such other information as the Registrar General indicates is required by these Regulations to be registered in the Gender Recognition Civil Partnership Register.

(4) If, on receipt of a completed application under paragraph (1), the Registrar General requires further information to enable the registration of the qualifying civil partnership in the Gender Recognition Civil Partnership Register, the Registrar General may request it from the parties.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations provide for the registration of marriages and civil partnerships in which one or both parties have obtained a full gender recognition certificate under the Gender Recognition Act 2004 (c. 7). Changes made to the Gender Recognition Act 2004 by the Marriage (Same Sex Couples) Act 2013 (c. 30) enable couples to remain married when one or both parties obtains a full gender recognition certificate, and to remain in a civil partnership when both parties obtain a full gender recognition certificate.

(a) Section 6 was amended by paragraph 6 of Schedule 5 to the 2013 Act.
(b) Section 8 was amended by section 250(5)(b) of the Civil Partnership Act 2004 (c. 33); paragraph 160 of Schedule 11(1) to the Crime and Courts Act 2013 (c. 22); and paragraph 8 of Schedule 5 to the 2013 Act.
(c) Section 4A was inserted by paragraph 4 of Schedule 5 to, the 2013 Act; section 5(2) was amended by section 250(1) and (3)(a) of the Civil Partnership Act 2004; section 5A was inserted by section 250(4) of the Civil Partnership Act 2004; and section 6 was amended by paragraph 6 of Schedule 5 to, the 2013 Act.

Regulation 3 requires the Registrar General to maintain a Gender Recognition Marriage Register, and a Gender Recognition Civil Partnership Register, which are not to be open for public inspection or search.

Part 2 is concerned with the Gender Recognition Marriage Register. The parties may jointly apply to the Registrar General under regulation 4 for the registration of their marriage in the Register, and regulation 5 requires the Registrar General to register the marriage and create a link (which is not to be open to public inspection) between the original marriage register entry and the new entry in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register.

Regulations 6 to 11 are concerned with the particulars required to be registered in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register. Regulation 6 sets out the basic position, which is that the Gender Recognition Marriage Register should contain the same particulars as were registered in the parties' original marriage register entry, amended to reflect the name and gender of the party or parties to whom a full gender recognition certificate has been granted.

Regulations 7 to 10 make provision for the modification of the registered particulars in certain cases. Regulation 7 deals with situations where the marriage is the result of the conversion of a civil partnership (under section 9 of the Marriage (Same Sex Couples) Act 2013). Regulation 8 makes provision where registering the original date of the marriage or civil partnership would indicate that the couple had formed a marriage of a same sex couple before that was possible under the law of England and Wales, and enables the parties to opt for the entry in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register to record the marriage as having been solemnised on a later date. Regulation 9 prohibits the Registrar General from registering any particulars in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register that would indicate that a marriage was solemnised according to religious rites or usages, or on religious premises. Such marriages are to be treated as having been formed in a register office. Regulation 10 deals with marriages solemnized outside the United Kingdom according to the law of England and Wales.

Regulation 11 gives the Registrar General power to amend the particulars where necessary to ensure that the registration does not inadvertently reveal the fact that a person has obtained gender recognition.

Regulation 12 requires the Registrar General to add entries in the Gender Recognition Marriage Register to the index of marriage register entries, and regulation 13 provides for the issue of certified copies.

Part 3 is concerned with the Gender Recognition Civil Partnership Register and makes equivalent provision as is made for marriage, except that there is no provision for the modification of particulars in certain cases.

Part 4 makes general provision about certified copies of entries in the Gender Recognition Registers, for corrections to the registers, and for entries in the registers to be cancelled if a full gender recognition certificate is revoked.

A full impact assessment has not been produced for this instrument as no impact on the private or voluntary sectors is foreseen.
