The National Minimum Wage Regulations 2015

PART 5

Hours Worked for the Purposes of the National Minimum Wage

CHAPTER 4

Output work

Determining hours of rated output work in a pay reference period

43. Where output work is rated output work, the time spent by the worker doing the output work during the pay reference period is 120 per cent of the number of hours that a worker, doing the work at the average hourly output rate, would have taken to produce the same measure of output in that period.
