(2) An inspector may—

(a) at any reasonable time (or, if the inspector has reason to believe that a danger to navigation has arisen, at any time) access or board any installation or vessel in the regulated zone(b) that the inspector thinks it is necessary to board or access; and

 - (e) cause anything found during the examination or investigation to be dismantled or subjected to any process or test (but not so as to damage or destroy it, unless that is necessary);
 - (f) take possession of anything found during the examination or investigation and detain or remove it for so long as is necessary for any of the following purposes—
 - (i) to examine it, or cause it to be examined, and to do, or cause to be done, to it anything that the inspector has the power to do under sub-paragraph (e);

 - (b) remove from any place a document or record that is required by law to be kept at the place.
- (6) A person is not required under this regulation to disclose information or produce a document or record that the person would be entitled to refuse to disclose or produce—

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations confer powers on inspectors appointed by the Secretary of State under Part 4A of the Energy Act 2008 (works detrimental to navigation).

(a) 2015 c.26.

Section 82A of the Energy Act 2008 prohibits the carrying out of certain operations in the regulated zone (as defined in section 82Q) without the written consent of the Secretary of State. Section 82N(1) gives the Secretary of State the power to appoint inspectors to assist in carrying out the Secretary of State's functions under Part 4A.

Regulation 3 sets out inspectors' powers. These include inter alia powers—

- to access and board installations and vessels;
- to make examinations and investigations;
- to require persons to answer questions (but regulation 5 limits the circumstances in which answers given in compliance with such a requirement may be used in criminal proceedings);
- to require the production of documents and records;
- to require persons to afford facilities and assistance to enable inspectors to exercise their powers.

Before exercising a power conferred by regulation 3, an inspector must, if requested to do so, produce evidence of his or her appointment (see regulation 4).

Regulation 6 makes it an offence to do the following—

- to knowingly or recklessly make a false or misleading statement in compliance with a requirement imposed by an inspector;
- to obstruct an inspector in the exercise or performance of the inspector's powers or duties;
- to fail to comply with a requirement imposed by an inspector;
- to prevent another person from complying with a requirement imposed by an inspector.

Proceedings for an offence under regulation 6 may be taken, and the offence may for all incidental purposes be treated as having been committed, in any place in the United Kingdom (see section 82O of the Energy Act 2008).

These Regulations extend to the whole of the United Kingdom. These Regulations apply to the regulated zone as defined in section 82Q of Part 4A of the Energy Act 2008, which excludes the Scottish inshore region (as defined in section 322 of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009).
