EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Order)

This Order amends the Education (National Curriculum) (Key Stage 2 Assessment Arrangements) (England) Order 2003 (S.I. 2003/1038) (“the 2003 Order”). It imposes a duty on head teachers to make assessment arrangements in relation to pupils in year four in respect of a new National Curriculum test (the multiplication tables check). The purpose of that test is to assess proficiency in relation to multiplication tables. The Secretary of State will make delegated supplementary provisions in due course under article 11 of the 2003 Order; those provisions will provide additional detail on how the multiplication tables check is to be administered and will be accessible at <https://www.gov.uk/government/collections/national-curriculum-assessments-key-stage-2-tests>.

The Order places an obligation on the Secretary of State to monitor the administration of the test, and to investigate potential cases of maladministration in respect of the administration of the test.

This Order also imposes a duty on the Secretary of State to consult the Office of Qualifications and Examinations Regulation and such other persons as the Secretary of State may consider appropriate when making, amending or revoking delegated supplementary provisions made under article 11 of the 2003 Order.

An impact assessment has not been produced for this instrument as it has no impact on businesses and civil society organisations. The instrument has a minimal impact on the public sector.
