CHAPTER 3

Quantification of claims

Estimate of quantum

128.—(1) The administrator must estimate the value of any debt which, by reason of it being subject to any contingency or for any other reason, does not bear a certain value, and a previous estimation may be revised, if the administrator thinks fit, by reference to any change of circumstances or to information becoming available to the administrator.

(2) The creditors must be informed of the estimation and any revision of it.

(3) Where the value of a debt is estimated under this rule, the amount provable in the special administration in the case of that debt is that of the estimate for the time being.
