The Genetically Modified Organisms (Transboundary Movement) (Wales) Regulations 2005

Service of Notices

- 13.—(1) Any notice to be served under these Regulations must be in writing.
- (2) Any such notice may be served on a person—
- (a) by delivering it to that person, or by sending it by post to him or her at his or her usual or last known address;
 - (b) in the case of an incorporated body, by delivering it to the secretary or clerk at the registered or principal office, or by sending it by post to him or her at that office;
 - (c) in the case of a partnership (other than a limited liability partnership), by delivering it to a partner or person having the control or management of the partnership business, or by sending it by post to him or her at the registered or principal office of that partnership;
 - (d) in the case of a limited liability partnership, by delivering it to a member of the limited liability partnership, or by sending it by post to him or her at the registered or principal office of that partnership;
 - (e) in the case of any other person, by leaving it, or sending it by post to him or her, at his usual or last known address; or
 - (f) where an address for service using electronic communications has been given by that person, sending it using electronic communications to that person at that address.
- (3) Where a notice is to be served on the occupier of any premises and it is not practicable after reasonable enquiry to ascertain the name and address of the person on whom it should be served, or the premises are unoccupied, the notice may be served by addressing it to the person concerned by the description of “occupier” of the premises (naming them) and—
- (a) by delivering it to some person on the premises; or
 - (b) if there is no person on the premises to whom it can be delivered, by affixing it, or a copy of it, to some conspicuous part of the premises.
- (4) Where a notice is served using electronic communications, the service is deemed to be effected by properly addressing and transmitting the electronic communication.
