under authority of the Minister for Health and Social Services, one of the Welsh Ministers

(3) “Advocacy services” are defined in section 181(2) of the Act as “services which provide assistance (by way of representation or otherwise) to persons for purposes relating to their care and support”.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

Under section 178(4) and (5) of the Social Services and Well-being (Wales) Act 2014, the Welsh Ministers are required to make regulations to make further provision about a local authority's duty to make arrangements to help children and young persons who want to make representations. This applies to representations by children and young persons about a range of the local authority's social services functions which affect children and young persons.

These Regulations make provision about the categories of persons who, under the local authority's arrangements, may not provide assistance to the child or young person.

When a local authority becomes aware that a child or young person wants to make representations, regulation 3 requires the local authority to provide information about advocacy services and help in obtaining the assistance of an advocate.

Regulation 4 requires a local authority to monitor its compliance with these requirements.

The Welsh Ministers' Code of Practice on the carrying out of Regulatory Impact Assessments was considered in relation to these Regulations. As a result, it was not considered necessary to carry out a regulatory impact assessment as to the likely costs and benefits of complying with these Regulations.
